post-hypnotic was organized by University Galleries of Illinois State University and is supported in part by grants from the National Endowment for the Arts and the Illinois Arts Council, a state agency.

post-hypnotic January 28 - March 12, 2000 post-hypnotic examines the resurgence of pronounced optical effects in the work of twenty-seven painters living in the United States, Switzerland, England, and Japan. The Op Art movement lost its critical appeal as it transmuted almost overnight from canvas into clothing design. Since the 1980s, however, numerous artists have revisited perceptual phenomena involving pulsating patterns, afterimages, vibrating illusionistic space, and other sensations often associated with altered states. The artists in the post-hypnotic era have a revived interest in abstraction in combination with popular imagery that may appear at first glance to be nothing more than patterned stripes, spots, concentric circles, or spirals. However, these artists have found new ways to expand on the primary visual imagery which stimulates the eye by adding social, allegorical, and autobiographical content to their artwork.

Opening reception: Friday, January 28, 2000, 7-9 pm, Atlanta College of Art Gallery
